

Corey Carlisle
Senior Vice President, American Bankers Association
Executive Director, ABA Foundation

Corey Carlisle is a senior vice president at the American Bankers Association, as well as the executive director of the ABA Foundation. He oversees the organization's philanthropic efforts as well as programs that support the industry's efforts around financial education, affordable housing, and other community development activities. Mr. Carlisle currently serves on the Board of Directors (Vice Chairman) for the Jump$tart Coalition for Personal Financial Literacy as well as the National Association of Affordable Housing Lenders and on the elder fraud prevention advisory council for the National Adult Protective Services Association. In 2019, he was named to the Retirement Security Project advisory board at the Brookings Institute, and has also served on a number of boards and coalitions advancing advocacy in the fields of community investment and revitalization.

Prior to joining ABA, he was the policy and government affairs director at the Low Income Investment Fund, a prominent community development organization, and was the associate vice president of governmental affairs at the Mortgage Bankers Association. Mr. Carlisle began his career as the legislative assistant to Sen. Kent Conrad (D-N.D.) and went on to work for several large financial institutions and banks. He received his bachelor's degree in economics and political science from the University of Minnesota and holds a master's degree from the London School of Economics and Political Science.